

CO 331 Principles of Journalism

Study and application of skills associated with various modes of journalism, including news, editorial and feature writing. Areas of study and practice include editing and revision, interviewing, research, critical media evaluation, with emphasis on ethics, legalities and uses in a Christian context.